The Hon. Mr. Justice P. LeSage

As Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Justice, I am honoured to introduce the first Annual Report of the Superior Court for the fiscal year 2007–2008.

This Court is one of the busiest and most accomplished trial courts in the world. I welcome the opportunity to provide the public with a better understanding of the deep history and breadth of work of the Superior Court. This Report also highlights the different roles and responsibilities of those who make up our Court, along with the administrative structures of its various committees and its staff.

This inaugural Report provides a comprehensive outline of the history, the authority and the scope of the Superior Court — the work, the Regions and the judges. This will be the foundational document for future reports to provide an even more in depth look into the world of our Court. The introduction of this Report is particularly timely as we evolve from the traditional Opening of Courts address each year, to recording this valuable information in the written form.

This Court's achievements in the last year would not have been possible without the support and wise counsel afforded to me by all members of the Council of Regional Senior Judges. I am truly grateful to these dedicated and committed judges who serve so diligently as the executive of our Court.

I would like to extend my profound thanks to all of the judges of the Superior Court of Justice who are so strongly committed to the core values of judicial service — devotion to the law, to the administration of justice and to serving the public.

In addition, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my capable and hard-working staff for their superior efforts in supporting the Office of the Chief Justice.

And finally on behalf of the Court, my thanks to all court staff, at all locations, for ensuring that every aspect of the justice system continues to operate smoothly and efficiently.

I invite everyone to take a few moments to consider the history, operations and responsibilities of the Superior Court of Justice, which are outlined in this Report. As always, we will strive to improve and enhance our approach to the administration of justice and the law for all Ontarians. This first Annual Report of the Superior Court will serve as constant reflection of our dedication to ensuring the integrity of our courts, the law, and the justice system as a whole.

Yours Truly,

Heather J. Smith,
Chief Justice

Message from the Associate Chief Justice

FORMER ASSOCIATE CHIEF JUSTICES of the Superior Court of Justice
1991–1994

The Hon. Mr. Justice R. McMurtry
1994–1996

The Hon. Mr. Justice P. LeSage
1996–2002

The Hon. Madam Justice H. Smith

I am pleased to join with Chief Justice Smith in presenting the Superior Court's first Annual Report.

This is a time of tremendous change in the justice system and there are many pressures facing our court. The Chief Justice and I work closely with the Superior Court's Regional Senior Judges Council to address these issues and to resolve the many challenges we face.

As Associate Chief Justice, I undertake a myriad of responsibilities on behalf of the Court, in addition to maintaining a very full sitting schedule. One of the areas I am deeply involved in is the administration of our Divisional Court where I not only sit regularly across the province, but work closely with the Registrar and the Administrative Judge. This branch of our court is one of the busiest appellate courts in Canada. In addition to its considerable civil and statutory appellate jurisdiction, the Divisional Court regularly reviews decisions of various administrative tribunals. Hopefully our efforts over the last several years to enhance the performance of this branch of our court have been successful. We continually strive to ensure that those appearing before this court have timely and affordable access to justice.

Another area in which I am involved is the Small Claims Court where I serve as Chair of the Deputy Judges Council, the statutory governing body responsible for reporting on the administration of this branch of our court. This court is a forum in which individual citizens often have their first contact with our civil justice system. Almost half of all civil litigation in Ontario is conducted in the Small Claims Court. As always, working with deputy judges, administrative judges and staff, we try to ensure that matters dealt with in the Small Claims Court are handled as efficiently and inexpensively as possible.

I also have general responsibility for managing approvals for individual judges to participate in professional development such as conferences and seminars. These educational opportunities are illustrative of how every one of our judges, as well as the whole Superior Court, is committed to improving the performance of the justice system in Ontario.

The significant challenges that our court faces include issues that impact on individuals, as well as on the whole justice system. This first Annual Report aptly demonstrates the breadth and scope of matters heard by the entire Superior Court of Justice, region by region. It also highlights some of the significant activities of our court and its members, and gives some perspective on the amount and quality of work we all undertake in one of the largest trial courts of superior jurisdiction in the world.

I hope you enjoy this first Annual Report.

Warmest regards,

J. Douglas Cunningham,
Associate Chief Justice

Introduction

The Superior Court of Justice in Ontario is unique among the courts of the province. It is a court of inherent jurisdiction, meaning that it does not derive its existence from legislation as the other courts of the province do. Instead, the Superior Court's jurisdiction is rooted in the history of the first courts of England, whose authority over government actions were based in the Magna Carta. The Superior Court of today is entrenched in our modern Canadian Constitution, guaranteeing that the Court continues its inherent and protective authority. Members of the public who engage in proceedings in the Superior Court should know that they are participating in a court process that distinctively traces its foundation to the very foundations of the common law system.

Beyond its seminal history, today's Superior Court of Justice in Ontario holds a place of major importance in the Canadian judicial system. The Court presides in 51 locations across Ontario and is the largest superior trial court in the country, both in the volume of cases and the number of judges. In the 12 month period ending March 31, 2008, a total of 212,082 new proceedings were commenced in the Court. All judges of the Court are appointed by the federal government and derive their inherent jurisdiction from their appointments under section 96 of the Constitution Act. The Superior Court's complement of full-time judges, currently 231, is fixed by regulation.<sup>1</sup> With jurisdiction over criminal, civil and family matters, the Superior Court of Justice touches the lives of countless Ontarians in significant ways.

These are only some of the notable and distinctive aspects of the Superior Court of Justice in Ontario that are explored in this first edition of the Court's Annual Report.

History of the Superior Court of Justice

The origins of the Superior Court of Justice can be traced back to the 1790s, when what is now Ontario was known as Upper Canada. At that time, the court system was based on English common law and modeled after the English system. By the 1830s, Upper Canada had a fully-functioning judicial system including superior, county and district courts; a court of equity (called the Court of Chancery); and a small claims court (called Division Court).

The common law and equity courts were merged in 1881 under the Ontario Judicature Act to create the new Supreme Court of Ontario with two branches: the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal. More recent milestones include the creation of the Divisional Court that was added to the Supreme Court of Ontario in 1970 and the establishment of a province-wide District Court combining district, county and general sessions courts in 1985.

The Courts of Justice Act establishes the legal framework for Ontario's court structure and court proceedings. The Act was substantially rewritten in 1989 to implement reforms designed to make the court system more accessible.

The Courts of Justice Amendment Act, 1989 created one large superior trial court when the High Court of Justice for Ontario merged with the District Court and the Surrogate Court. This new superior trial court was called the Ontario Court (General Division). The former provincial court continued on as the Ontario Court (Provincial Division).<sup>2</sup> The Small Claims Court and the Divisional Court were continued as branches of the General Division. The court reform legislation also regionalized the administration of the courts by creating eight judicial regions for the General Division.

The name of the Ontario Court (General Division) was changed to the Superior Court of Justice in April 1999 when the Courts Improvement Act, 1996 came into force.

Jurisdiction of the Superior Court of Justice

The Superior Court of Justice in Ontario has inherent jurisdiction over criminal, civil and family cases, arising from Ontario's common law traditions. The Court has all the jurisdiction, power and authority historically exercised by courts of common law and equity in England and Ontario. The Superior Court's inherent jurisdiction gives it authority to hear any matter that is not specifically assigned to another level of court. The Court also has authority over matters granted to it by federal and provincial statutes.

CRIMINAL

The Criminal Code<sup>3</sup> codifies the Superior Court's power to try any indictable offence. However, the Superior Court generally tries only the most serious offences. These include aggravated assault, manslaughter, murder, drug trafficking, treason and other offences against the security of the state, or an attempt or conspiracy to commit one of these offences. An individual accused of these offences is tried by a judge of the Superior Court, with or without a jury.

The Superior Court also has appellate authority over summary conviction criminal cases heard in the Ontario Court of Justice.

By the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 2008, a total of 4,141 criminal proceedings had been commenced in the Superior Court of Justice.

CIVIL

The Superior Court of Justice hears all civil proceedings in Ontario, exercising original or trial jurisdiction in civil matters. For example, the Court hears bankruptcy and insolvency cases, commercial cases, personal injury cases, and estates-related litigation. As well, the Court has some appellate jurisdiction under various statutes.

Between April 1, 2007 and March 31, 2008, a total of 84,054 civil proceedings had been commenced in the Superior Court of Justice

(not including approximately 20,000 uncontested estates matters, and not including any Small Claims Court or Divisional Court cases which are described in the following sections).

The Small Claims Court, a branch of the Superior Court, offers a forum to bring or defend civil claims involving $10,000 or less in money or property. The Rules of the Small Claims Court provide for streamlined procedures. Cases in Small Claims Court are usually determined at a lower cost and much more quickly than cases in the Superior Court.

Typically, a Small Claims Court proceeding is presided over by a deputy judge. Deputy judges are appointed by the Regional Senior Judge, with the approval of the Ontario Attorney General, for a three-year term. As of March 31, 2008, there were 402 deputy judges on the roster of the Small Claims Court, plus one full-time and three per diem provincially appointed judges.

The Small Claims Court is the busiest civil court in Ontario. Between April 1, 2007 and March 31, 2008, 63,633 new proceedings had been commenced at the more than 90 Small Claims Court locations in Ontario.

The Divisional Court is also a branch of the Superior Court. However, it is not a trial court. It hears judicial reviews of government action in Ontario, statutory appeals from Ontario administrative tribunals, and some civil appeals from orders not exceeding $50,000. The Divisional Court includes the Chief Justice, the Associate Chief Justice and other Superior Court judges designated by the Chief Justice. A proceeding is usually heard and decided by a panel of three judges. However, hearings may be held before a single judge in urgent matters and in certain other circumstances.

The Divisional Court sits regularly in Toronto throughout the year and schedules sittings in all other regions of the province at various times.

The Divisional Court is one of the busiest appellate courts in Canada, with 1,362 new proceedings commenced by the end of the fiscal year.

FAMILY

The Superior Court has sole jurisdiction, under federal law, in any family case involving divorce and the division of property, in every one of its 50 court locations across the province. Since family law involves both federal and provincial statutes, family proceedings are divided between the Superior Court of Justice and the Ontario Court of Justice in most locations. Child protection and adoption cases, which fall under provincial law, must be commenced in the Ontario Court. Both courts have jurisdiction over child and spousal support as well as child custody and access.

In 17 of the 50 Superior Court locations in Ontario, the split jurisdiction between the Superior Court and the Ontario Court has been unified under the Courts of Justice Act, to create the Family Court, a branch of the Superior Court. At any Family Court site, all family matters are heard, including divorce, division of property, support, custody and access, child protection and adoption. The Family Court consists of the Chief Justice, the Associate Chief Justice, the Senior Family Judge, the judges specifically appointed as members of the Family Court, and all other judges of the Superior Court, assigned to the Family Court from time to time by the Chief Justice.

The Family Court was originally known as the Unified Family Court (UFC) and began as a pilot project in Hamilton in 1977. The UFC did what the name implies, combining jurisdiction to hear matters under both federal and provincial family law statutes into one court. The pilot project became permanent in 1984. Ten years later, in 1994, the Family Court was established as a branch of what was then called, the Ontario Court (General Division), under an amendment to the Courts of Justice Act. The UFC became part of the Family Court at that time and four new Family Court locations were added: London, Barrie, Kingston and Napanee. Twelve more sites opened in 1999, so that all court locations in the Central East Region (Bracebridge, Cobourg, Durham Region, Lindsay, Newmarket and Peterborough) and most of the East Region (Brockville, Cornwall, L'Orignal, Ottawa and Perth), along with St. Catharines in the Central South Region became Family Court branch sites.

As of July 1, 2004, all family proceedings commenced in any court in Ontario are governed by the same Family Law Rules.

Various support services, developed collaboratively between the Ministry of the Attorney General and the judiciary, are offered at the Family Court sites—including Family Law Information Centres (FLICs), mediation services, parent information sessions, supervised access exchange facilities and legal aid duty counsel and advice counsel.

Constitutional Division of Responsibility

Canada's Constitution divides responsibility for the courts between the federal and provincial governments. Under section 96 of the Constitution Act, 1867, the federal government appoints judges to the superior, district and county courts of each province. Under section 92(14), the administration of justice—including the maintenance of civil and criminal courts—is exclusively within the power of the provinces. In Ontario, responsibility for the administration of justice falls to the Ministry of the Attorney General.

Ontario's Courts of Justice Act<sup>4</sup> establishes the statutory goals for courts administration. The courts must be administered to maintain the independence of the judiciary, recognize the very separate and distinct roles and responsibilities of the Attorney General and the judiciary, encourage public access to the courts and public confidence in the administration of justice, further the provision of high-quality services to the public, and promote the efficient use of public resources.

The Act<sup>5</sup> defines the role of the Attorney General in courts administration, stating that the Attorney General shall superintend all matters connected with the administration of the courts, other than the following:

- (1) matters assigned by law to the judiciary, including authority to direct and supervise the sittings and the assignment of the judicial duties of the court;
- (2) matters related to the education, conduct and discipline of judges and justices of the peace, which are governed by other provisions of the Act, the Justices of the Peace Act and federal legislation; and
- (3) matters assigned to the judiciary by a memorandum of understanding on court administration between the Attorney General and the Chief Justice of a court.

The most recent key development in the evolution of the constitutional division of responsibilities between the Attorney General and the courts took place in 2007. In October 2007, new amendments to the Courts of Justice Act authorized the Attorney General of Ontario and the Chief Justice of the Superior Court to enter into a memorandum of understanding (MOU).<sup>6</sup> These amendments are a significant feature of Part V of the Act which focuses on the roles and responsibilities of the courts and the Attorney General. The MOU between the Attorney General of Ontario and the Chief Justice of the Superior Court will serve as a foundational document to guide the interpretation of their appropriate roles in and the proper support for courts administration. The MOU will achieve two key accomplishments:

- (1) recognizing and formalizing existing arrangements between the two parties; and
- (2) creating a framework for future agreements to improve the administration of justice.

Throughout 2007 and 2008, the Superior Court of Justice worked in collaboration with the Ministry of the Attorney General to develop the terms of the MOU.<sup>7</sup>

The courts must be administered to maintain the independence of the judiciary...

Roles and Responsibilities of Judicial Officials

The Superior Court of Justice includes the following judges: the Chief Justice, the Associate Chief Justice, eight Regional Senior Judges, and the Senior Judge of the Family Court. These 11 judges make up the executive of the court—the Regional Senior Judges Council. All other judges are known as puisne judges. In all, there were 301 judges of the Superior Court, including 71 supernumerary judges, as of March 31, 2008.

As of March 31, 2008, the Superior Court was also served by three masters and 16 case management masters (judicial officials appointed by the provincial government to hear certain matters under the Rules of Civil Procedure) and by non-judicial officials such as registrars in bankruptcy and assessment officers. In addition, there were 402 deputy judges on the roster of the Small Claims Court as of March 31, 2008, plus one full-time and three per diem provincially appointed judges.

CHIEF JUSTICE

The Chief Justice has numerous statutory responsibilities under various federal and provincial laws. For example, under the Courts of Justice Act, the Chief Justice has the authority to direct and supervise the sittings of the Superior Court and the assignment of judicial duties.<sup>8</sup> Some of the statutory powers and duties of the Chief Justice, as set out in the Act<sup>9</sup> include:

- (1) determining the sittings of the court;
- (2) assigning judges to the sittings;
- (3) assigning cases and other judicial duties to individual judges;
- (4) determining the sitting schedules and places of sittings for individual judges;
- (5) determining the total annual, monthly and weekly workload of individual judges; and
- (6) preparing trial lists and assigning courtrooms, to the extent necessary to control the determination of who is assigned to hear particular cases.

The Act enables the Chief Justice to delegate authority to a Regional Senior Judge to exercise these powers in his or her region.<sup>10</sup> The Act also provides for the assignment of judges to the different regions across the province. The Chief Justice must assign every judge of the Superior Court to a region and may reassign a judge from one region to another.<sup>11</sup>

Some of the Chief Justice's other statutory powers include appointing various officials and representatives such as: registrars in bankruptcy, members of committees including the Rules Committees and the Family Court community liaison and community resources committees, ad hoc appointments to the Court of Appeal and per diem provincial court judges. The Chief Justice is also responsible for reporting and approving judicial leaves of absence and responding to complaints and disciplinary issues for case management masters.

Apart from these specific statutory obligations, the Chief Justice has significant duties under the common law, including an overarching responsibility to protect the Court's institutional independence. As legal scholar, Peter Hogg has written:

“It is the Chief Justice of each superior court who manages the relationship between the court and the government... The Chief Justice has a unique responsibility... for safeguarding the independence of the judiciary.”<sup>12</sup>

This responsibility requires the Chief Justice to serve as lead communicator and liaison with the federal and provincial governments and also with the many partners in the justice system—including other levels of court, the bar, and stakeholders such as the National Judicial Institute and the Canadian Judicial Council (CJC). In fulfilling these duties, the Chief Justice responds to approximately 3,000 pieces of correspondence each year and makes formal remarks on behalf of the Superior Court on approximately 100 different occasions annually. In 2007, the Chief Justice also completed her term as chair of the CJC’s Trial Courts Standing Committee.

ASSOCIATE CHIEF JUSTICE

Under the Courts of Justice Act, if the Chief Justice is absent from Ontario or for any reason is unable to act, the Associate Chief Justice performs and exercises his or her duties and powers.<sup>13</sup>

As well as these statutory responsibilities, the Associate Chief Justice performs various duties on behalf of the Court—including liaising with the Administrative Judge of the Divisional Court to ensure the effective administration of justice in this branch of the Superior Court. The Associate Chief Justice is also the Chair of the Deputy Judges Council and plays a leadership role with respect to Small Claims Court matters on behalf of the Court.

REGIONAL SENIOR JUDGES

For administrative purposes, the Court is broken down into eight judicial regions across the province. Subject to the authority of the Chief Justice, each Regional Senior Judge exercises the powers and performs the duties of the Chief Justice in his or her region.<sup>14</sup> In particular, the Regional Senior Judge exercises the powers of the Chief Justice to direct and supervise sittings and assign judicial duties in the region.<sup>15</sup>

A Regional Senior Judge, in turn, may delegate specified functions to another Superior Court judge in the region.<sup>16</sup> For example, Regional Senior Judges designate Local Administrative Judges to assign and schedule cases at certain court sites or in special jurisdictions. In addition, Regional Senior Judges appoint deputy judges of the Small Claims Court in their regions with the approval of the Attorney General<sup>17</sup> and also manage complaints and disciplinary matters concerning deputy judges.<sup>18</sup>

SENIOR FAMILY JUDGE

The Courts of Justice Act sets out the duties of the Senior Judge of the Family Court.<sup>19</sup> He or she is responsible for providing advice to the Chief Justice on specific matters concerning the Family Court—including judicial education, practice and procedure, Family Court expansion, and expenditure of budgeted funds. As well, the Senior Family Judge meets with the community liaison and community resources committees at each Family Court site.

Under the Act, the Senior Family Judge also performs other duties related to the Family Court as assigned by the Chief Justice. These responsibilities may include working with the Ministry of the Attorney General and other stakeholders to improve family law proceedings at all Superior Court locations. In addition to the specific statutory duties relating to the Family Court, the Senior Family Judge also advises the Chief Justice on family law matters at all Superior Court sites.

Administrative Structure of the Superior Court of Justice

REGIONAL SENIOR JUDGES COUNCIL

Under the Courts of Justice Act, the Chief Justice may hold meetings with the Associate Chief Justice, the Regional Senior Judges and the Senior Family Judge to consider matters concerning sittings of the Superior Court, assignment of judicial duties, the rules of court and the administration of justice generally.<sup>20</sup> These provisions of the Act are the basis for the Regional Senior Judges Council, which functions as the “executive committee” for the Superior Court of Justice.

The Council includes the Chief Justice, the Associate Chief Justice, the Senior Family Judge and the Regional Senior Judges. It operates on a consensual model to provide advice to the Chief Justice on high-level policy and governance issues affecting the administration of the court.

Generally, the Council meets every month to consider issues raised by its members or other judges. It also provides a forum for the Regional Senior Judges to provide feedback on policy proposals after consultation with judges in their regions.

COMMITTEES

To assist the Chief Justice and the Regional Senior Judges Council in managing the affairs of the Court, a series of committees have been established. Some of these committees report directly to the Chief Justice, others report to Council. Others liaise more informally with the senior administrative judges of the Court and involve other judges or staff in the Office of the Chief Justice.

Workload and Wellness Committee

The Workload and Wellness Committee was established by the Chief Justice in 2007. Under the terms of reference endorsed by the Regional Senior Judges Council and approved by the Chief Justice, the committee examines judicial concerns related to workload and wellness and develops recommendations for Council’s consideration to assist the judges of the Court in meeting the challenges they face.

The committee has established five priorities for its work:

- (1) communications;
- (2) judicial complement;
- (3) family law proceedings;
- (4) scheduling; and
- (5) government relations.

Security Committee

The Security Committee assists judges of the Court to address security concerns. Accomplishments in recent years include the provision of duress alarms in all judicial chambers, the development of a threat response protocol for judges, a risk threat assessment protocol, and a package of security tips and best practices.

Facilities Committee

The Facilities Committee is newly mandated to consider, review and provide strategic advice on courthouse facility issues. It reports to the Chief Justice and may recommend policy for consideration by the Chief Justice and Regional Senior Judges Council. The Facilities Committee is mandated to represent the interests of the Court and liaise with the Ontario government, the Ontario Court of Justice, the local judiciary and other partners in the justice system.

Education Committee

The Education Committee collaborates with the National Judicial Institute to organize two court-wide judicial educational seminars each year. The Education Committee is mandated by the Chief Justice to develop all presentations and materials for these three-day conferences held each Spring and Fall. Three members are appointed by the Chief Justice and three members are recommended by the Ontario Superior Court Judges Association to serve for staggered three-year terms. This committee produces consistently informative judicial educational seminars for all the judges of the Superior Court.

Library Committee

The mandate of the Library Committee is to advise the Chief Justice on judicial libraries, to consult with and advise the Manager of Judicial Library Services on the Court's library needs, and to act as a liaison between the Chief Justice and the Manager. For example, the committee makes recommendations about new technology projects for the provision of legal research and information services. One member of the committee speaks for bilingual needs, another represents northern needs, while a third liaises with the Education Committee. The Committee ensures the maintenance and adherence to the judicial library standards at all Superior Court locations.

Articling Committee

The Articling Student Committee oversees the coordination of the Superior Court of Justice Clerkship Program. The Committee is responsible for developing province-wide policies and guidelines related to the 21 law clerks who serve the judges of the Superior Court of Justice, including education, training and recruitment. The mandate of the Committee includes reviewing the nature of the role of the law clerks and assessing how they can best provide legal research assistance to the judges of the Court. Since judicial law clerks at the Superior Court are also articling students, the Committee outlines the educational needs of law clerks based on the licensing requirements of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE

The Office of the Chief Justice supports the largest judicial complement and highest caseload of any superior trial court in Canada.

The Office of the Chief Justice consists of a central office and eight regional offices. The central office is located at Osgoode Hall in Toronto. The Executive Legal Officer is the senior executive responsible for all operations of the Office of the Chief Justice and also provides legal advice to the Chief Justice and the judges of the court. The central office is staffed by four other counsel, the Executive Administrative Officer, the Information Technology Unit, and several other administrative support positions. This group advises and supports the Chief Justice.

Counsel and the Executive Administrative Officer, assisted by administrative support in the central office, provide legal, administrative and policy-development support for the Regional Senior Judges Council. In addition, counsel support senior judges serving on the Civil and Family Rules Committees and on the Court's Facilities and Security Committees.

The Office of the Chief Justice serves as the interface between the judiciary and provincial and federal governments by liaising with the Ontario Ministry of the Attorney General, the federal Department of Justice and other justice sector partners. This role involves participation at standing operational, policy and technical tables and collaboration on specific projects and ad hoc committees by bringing the Court's perspective to these organizations.

In addition, the Office of the Chief Justice includes the eight Regional Managers—Judicial Services, and a regional staff with more than 70 trial coordinators, who assist the Regional Senior Judges with their scheduling and assignment duties.

In the summer of 2007, after three years of exemplary service as the Executive Legal Officer of the Superior Court of Justice, Mr. Paul J. Evraire, Q.C., returned to his permanent position with the federal Department of Justice in Toronto. With a seamless transition, in June 2007, Ms. Roslyn J. Levine, Q.C., joined the Office of the Chief Justice as the new Executive Legal Officer after 30 years with the Department of Justice.

The Legal Research Facility, also part of the Office of the Chief Justice, performs legal research for all 300 judges of the Superior Court of Justice. Twenty-one law clerks—who are articling students fulfilling their professional licensing requirements with the Law Society of Upper Canada—are supervised by mentor judges with the assistance of a dedicated legal counsel who supervises the Legal Research Facility. Many of the law clerks are physically located in the regional offices, while the remainder are located in Toronto.

The Office of the Chief Justice supports the largest judicial complement and highest caseload of any superior trial court in Canada.

Key Developments in the Superior Court of Justice (2007–2008)

DIVISIONAL COURT CIVIL JURISDICTION INCREASED

The Divisional Court is the primary forum for the review of government action in Ontario and also has jurisdiction to hear some civil appeals. Under amendments to the Courts of Justice Act effective in October 2007, the monetary limit on civil appeals to the Divisional Court increased from $25,000 to $50,000.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

The Courts of Justice Act amendments proclaimed in October 2007 allow the Ontario Attorney General and the Chief Justice of the Superior Court to enter into a memorandum of understanding on appropriate roles in, and proper support for, courts administration. Such an MOU would recognize and formalize existing arrangements between the two parties and create a framework for future agreements to improve the administration of justice. Negotiations between the Ministry of the Attorney General and the Superior Court took place throughout 2007 and 2008 with an aim to finalize the terms of the MOU in the spring of 2008. (NB: The MOU was signed by the Chief Justice of the Superior Court and the Attorney General in May 2008.)

FAMILY CASE MANAGER IN OTTAWA

A new rule was added to the Family Law Rules in March 2007, to create the position of Family Case Manager as a pilot project in Ottawa until 2010. The role and function of Family Case Manager is performed by a case management master who is empowered under the Family Law Rules to hear certain pre-trial proceedings and conferences. The Chief Justice assigned a second case management master to Ottawa to work with the existing case management master to establish the pilot project.

FAMILY LAW PRACTICE DIRECTIONS

In October 2007, new practice directions were issued in Brampton and Milton to address challenges with family law conferences in these court locations. A new practice direction initiated a pilot project in Milton, whereby experienced lawyers preside at Dispute Resolution Conferences (DRC) attended by both parties. The purpose of a DRC is to resolve outstanding issues and ensure the parties are better prepared to conduct a meaningful case conference with a judge if issues remain unresolved. In both Brampton and Milton, a new practice direction introduced Early Case Conferences to be scheduled for a set time each week. In these early conferences, a judge deals with short procedural issues that require determination before a regular case conference can be held.

In March 2008, new practice directions were also issued in the Central South, East, Northeast, Northwest and Southwest Regions to assist litigants and their lawyers in making the best use of available conference time by encouraging greater use of Form 14B Motions. Form 14B Motions allow parties to address certain threshold issues, such as procedural, uncomplicated or unopposed matters, prior to the case conference. By promoting their use through this practice direction, such motions will facilitate fewer, but more meaningful, case conferences. These and other practice directions are available on the Court's website at: <http://www.ontariocourts.on.ca/scj/en/>.

NATIONAL CLASS ACTIONS PRACTICE DIRECTION

As of June 1, 2007, a practice direction requires the parties in class proceedings in Ontario to provide information to the National Class Actions Database established and maintained by the Canadian Bar Association. The Ontario practice direction follows a recommendation of the Uniform Law Conference of Canada, endorsed by the Canadian Judicial Council, to create a forum to facilitate the exchange of information about multi-jurisdictional class proceedings. More information can be found on the Superior Court website (<http://www.ontariocourts.on.ca/scj/en/>) or by contacting the Canadian Bar Association.

FOREIGN DELEGATIONS

As one of the largest trial courts in the world, the Superior Court of Justice has built an international reputation for excellence and professionalism. The Court frequently welcomes judicial delegations from other countries who are studying Ontario's legal system.

In September 2007, Judges Jon Bonnevie Hoyer and Ruth Hoyer, a judicial couple from Oslo, Norway, visited Toronto as part of their work to survey the operation of Small Claims Courts around the world. They were greeted by the Chief Justice, who arranged their introduction to Ministry staff and judges of the Small Claims Court.

In November 2007, a group of six judges visited Toronto from the Ukraine. The purpose of this trip was to gain a detailed understanding of best practices in courts management in Canada as part of the Canada-Ukraine Judicial Cooperation Project. In collaboration with the Office of the Commissioner for Federal Judicial Affairs, staff of the Office of the Chief Justice hosted the visiting judges. The Toronto Regional Senior Judge made a presentation to the group.

WEBSITE IMPROVEMENT

The Manager of Judicial Library Services works with the Library Committee to maintain the court's website on behalf of the judiciary. After consultation, the Internet site at <http://www.ontariocourts.on.ca/scj/en/> was refreshed and redesigned. The changes create a contemporary online visual identity for the Superior Court of Justice as well as providing a more user-friendly environment. Improvements and additions to the site will continue on an ongoing basis. This first Annual Report 2007-2008 of the Superior Court of Justice is now available on the Court's website:

<http://www.ontariocourts.on.ca/scj/en/reports/annualreport/07-08.pdf>

NEW COURT FACILITIES

The New Durham Consolidated Courthouse

Construction of the new Durham Consolidated Courthouse began in June 2007 and its completion is anticipated for the Fall of 2009. It is located at 150 Bond Street, Oshawa, and houses 33 new courtrooms for proceedings heard by the Superior Court of Justice and the Ontario Court of Justice. The judiciary has provided valuable input into the design and development of this new courthouse through the collaborative consultation process between the Court's Facilities Committee and the Government of Ontario.

The New Renfrew County Courthouse

As well, in June 2007, renovation of the Renfrew County Courthouse in Pembroke was completed. The new six-courtroom, 75,000 square foot facility incorporates modern court technology and security functions in an expanded and historically significant building. Except for the recent construction period, the Renfrew County Courthouse has been in continuous operation since the original structure was completed in 1866.

Future Initiatives

In 2006, the Ontario government announced plans for four new consolidated courthouse projects to be built in St. Thomas, Quinte, Waterloo and Thunder Bay.
